Hearing Tuesday for Newry voters to debate SAD #44 withdrawal

The town of Newry will hold a special town meeting Tuesday, Aug. 28, at which residents will have the opportunity to discuss the possibility of withdrawing the town from SAD #44.

The meeting is the outgrowth primarily of discontent over the amount of money the town is taxed for the local school system. Newry accounts for only five percent of the students in the district but, because of its high property valuation, pays 25 percent of the local school-tax bill.

The town's relative lack of voting power on the school board and concerns about the quality of education provided by the district are also issues for some residents.

Following the meeting, on Sept. 11, there will be a secret-ballot referendum vote on whether the town will form a formal committee to move ahead on the withdrawal process.

If townspeople vote to proceed, the committee must develop an in-depth plan for educating the town's children. That plan, which is required to include a comprehensive financial analysis, must then be approved by the state Department of Education.

Tuesday's meeting will be held at 7 p.m. in the town office building. (The meeting was originally scheduled for Monday, Aug. 27, but was moved back so as not to conflict with the regularly scheduled meeting of the SAD #44 Board of Directors.)

Andover selectmen receive Maselli resignation; hear building permit complaints

By BARBARA ADAMS

Andover selectmen on Aug. 13 received but did not accept the resignation of Selectman William Maselli. The selectmen also heard several complaints about the Andover Planning Board.

Maselli submitted his resignation, effective immediately, by letter to the selectmen and did not attend the selectmen's meeting.

In a letter to the citizen's of Andover published Aug. 15 in the Bethel Citizen, Maselli cited the increased demands of his law practice as the reason for his resignation.

At the meeting, Fred Emerson, chairman of the selectmen, said he is trying to convince Maselli to stay "a while longer" to ease the transition. Emerson said a two person board of selectmen could be a problem, should the selectmen not agree; a third selectman can provide a tie-breaker

Chief says East Bethel marijuana haul will lead to drug arrests

Bethel Police Chief Brian Stowell said he expects criminal charges to be filed following last Thursday's raid on a marijuana field in East Bethel.

The raid, on property off the Perry Road, netted over 120 marijuana plants.

The police encountered a man on the property during the raid, Stowell said, but no charges were placed at the time.

Citing an ongoing investigation, Stowell declined to reveal the name of the man the police encountered at the scene, or to speculate on the nature of the criminal charges that might be filed.

He did say, however, that he was extremely pleased with the coordination and execution of the multi-department operation, which involved the Bethel Police Department, the Oxford County Sheriff's Office and the offices of both the state and federal attorneys.

"It's a great morale booster," for the local anti-drug campaign, the Chief said.

Stowell said the raid resulted from a tip he received on Tuesday. His own initial investigation led him to believe that the situation was "a rare case," where successful prosecution might be possible, he said—as opposed to the more usual situation of finding marijuana being grown on the property of a large landowner who is probably unaware of its existence.

Stowell said he then made sure to go through all the formal steps required if the case were to have the chance for an eventual prosecution.

He first contacted the county sheriff's office, which assigned Capt. See MARIJUANA, page 8

Sen. George Mitchell endorses Jeff Mills

By DOROTHY J. DUDDY

United States Senator George Mitchell attended a reception Sunday at the Hammons House in Bethel where he endorsed the campaign of House Rep. Jeff Mills. Mills is relinquishing his position in the House to campaign for the State Senate.

Mitchell was on a whirlwind 10-day tour of Maine but he took time to answer the questions of those present, including Jarrod Crockett who, though not yet out of his teens, says he wants to become the Governor of Maine one day.

Crockett questioned Mitchell on the reason for dissent between the two parties, especially when they both want the same things. He also asked if the Senator was going to support Bill Cohen.

To the first question Mitchell pointed out the value of competition but to the question of support for Cohen, he said he was supporting Neil Rolde.

Regarding the Middle East crisis Mitchell said he supported the President George Bush's action and said that the President could call up to 200,000 troops to deter invasion without the consent of Congress.

Also, Mitchell said two issues must be addressed to reduce pollution: energy conservation the quest for forms of nonpolluting energy. He said that if we do not get serious soon, the last laugh will be on the American People. He strongly advocated research of the electric car to remove the number one source of pollution in the country.

On gas prices, Mitchell said he had asked for an investigation of the prices to see if they were in fact not price gouging. Though supporting the free enterprise system, he said oil prices need to be investigated.

Mitchell was joined by other local candidates Bert Averill, who is a candidate for Oxford County Sheriff and Sue Fraser, who is running for State Legislature.

Bethel town manager Lynch resigns

By CHRISTY CROSS

During an executive session to "discuss personnel matters," the Bethel Board of Selectmen Monday night accepted the resignation of Town Manager Rodney Lynch.

Lynch said following the approximately half-hour session that the selectmen's failure to return to executive session before accepting his resignation had probably been "an emotional oversight."

Asked immediately following the session what had been discussed, Arlan Jodrey, chairman of the board, said, "Ask Rodney."

The selectmen then quietly left the town office.

Lynch, who initially expressed reluctance to discuss the topic of the executive session, said, "I've done what I set out to do. It's time for somebody else to take a fresh look at what needs to be done in Bethel."

In his resignation letter, Lynch wrote that he had, in March of 1988, committed himself to Bethel for three to five years. Specifically, he wrote, he committed himself to accomplish the following goals: "Upgrade and replace the highway department's aging and deteriorating equipment and vehicles; upgrade the town's infrastructure, such as the sewage treatment plant, sewer lines and storm drains; and handle the growth and development problems that the town was about to experience."

Lynch wrote that he had met, and even exceeded, his commitments and feels "it is now time for a new manager with fresh energies, enthusiasm, ideas and new ways of doing business."

Lynch said his resignation will be effective Nov. 4, 1990, a date distant enough, he hopes, to allow for a smooth transition to a new manager.

He said that if the town has not hired a new manager by that time he would still try to remain available, perhaps on a consultant basis, until a new manager was hired.

Lynch said he has no firm plans and no job to move on to. He wrote in his letter, "...my immediate plans consist of reducing my own stress level, improving my physical health and renewing my own energies, enthusiasm and goals and deciding what I want to do next."

Lynch's resignation came at the same meeting at which the selectmen voted to contract with the Maine Department of Economic Development for the award of a two-year, $579,960 Community Development Block Grant to be used to upgrade the town's sewer and storm drains and water lines (see related story).

Although Jodrey left the meeting Monday night prior to Lynch making his decision public, he told Lynch in response to news of the grant award, "That's a big one Rodney. You've earned your peanuts."

Bethel wins $579,960 CDBG

By CHRISTY CROSS

The Bethel selectmen Monday night authorized Town Manager Rodney Lynch to sign the contract offered by the Maine Department of Economic and Community Development, which has awarded the town a total of $579,960 in Community Development Block Grant funds.

However, the question of what will happen to the grant should Bethel Park Apartments be denied local permits remains unanswered.

Lynch said Monday night he believes the number of households in Bethel's village area falling within the low to moderate income range would still qualify the town for the federal CDBG. Still, he pointed out, "When we put that grant application together, the whole thing was based on that affordable housing project."

Lynch has said on several occasions that the CDBG and the housing project go hand-in-hand.

The grant, combined with a proposed $330,000 Farmers Home Administration loan/grant package, will be used to upgrade sewer and storm drains and water lines along Main Street, Spring Street, Mason Street, High Street and Elm Street.

The improvements will make it financially feasible for Gleichman & Co. of Portland to build the 48-unit Bethel Park Apartments project. Without the grant, the developers would either have to pay for the improvements themselves or forego the project, according to correspondence at the town office.

The housing project, which comes under the town's site plan review process, has yet to receive planning board approval. (The planning board has scheduled further discussion of the Bethel Park Apartments project at its meeting tonight (Wednesday, Aug. 22) at 7 p.m. at the town office.)

Although Lynch said he expects Gleichman & Co. will meet the requirements of the site plan review, a number of townspeople are protesting the project.

Shelley Lane, the community development office specialist assigned to Bethel, said Monday that the sewer line project is necessary to the town regardless of the housing project.

However, when asked whether approval of the housing project is necessary in order for the town to actually receive the CDBG money, Lane said, "I think we would re-examine the project and talk about it, but I don't know that the grant would be affected."

Eden Ridge condominiums sold at auction

By CHRISTY CROSS

Keenan Auction Company, in less than an hour last Sunday, auctioned off 10 condominium units at Eden Ridge for a combined price of $436,500.

Additionally, the company auctioned off two approved development sites at Eden Ridge for $18,000, bringing the total of the real estate foreclosure sale to $454,500.

The two finished units on the block brought $75,000 and $70,000. Keenan listed the 1989 asking price for these units at $123,900 and $112,900, respectively.

Of the eight remaining units, unfinished, seven brought between $34,500 and $35,500 and one brought $48,000.

Keenan listed the 1989 asking prices for these units, had they been completed, at between $112,900 and $119,900.

For tax purposes, the town has the unfinished units valued at $44,300 to $49,300.

Avery Angevine of Bethel, with his partner Barry Saxe of Falmouth, began construction of the condominium development in January of 1987. The corporation built 40 of the planned 52 units.

All thirty of the units sold prior to Sunday's auction were sold before December, 1989.

C. Susan Mason, of CSM Real Estate/Keenan Auction Company of Kingfield, said Monday, "I think we did as well as we thought we would."

Originally, Maine Savings Bank, which sent the development to foreclosure auction, retained the right to bid on the property. However, at the sale, Keenan announced that the bank would not be bidding.

Keenan told the prospective bidders, "You are the greatest appraisers in the world, ladies and gentlemen. You are going to tell us what these beautiful properties are worth."

Mason said, "I think, primarily, (Maine Savings Bank) thought that with the unfinished units it was a better marketing procedure."

The names of the successful bidders on the property won't be released, per company policy, until the sales have been closed, Mason said.

Keenan Auction Company will be holding three additional real estate foreclosure auctions in the Bethel area on Sept. 8, Mason said.

Two of the properties are on Bridge Street in Bethel, one 17.7 acres of land and the other a single-family, three-bedroom house, Mason said. That auction will be held at 11 a.m.

Also on Sept. 8, at 2 p.m., Keenan Auction Company will auction off one unit at Lake Christopher Condominiums in Bryant Pond, Mason said.

Best wishes, Rodney Lynch

Undoubtedly, the news of Bethel Town Manager Rodney Lynch's resignation will be received both with relief and with disappointment, depending on who you talk to. Such is the nature of jobs where there are so many judges with so many agendas, whether personal or for the "good of the community." It is, as the old saying goes, impossible to please all of the people all of the time.

This paper has taken Lynch to task a number of times, most recently about his compensatory time, month-long vacation. He is, as in all jobs where people sit in full view of the public, an easy target for any number of shots.

We may not have always agreed with Lynch, but we never doubted that he cared and that he did his best.

Even the selectmen, who must have disagreed with Lynch on a number of occasions, were somber at the news Monday night. Despite the disagreements, they undoubtedly know he is going to be a difficult person to replace.

Still, as Lynch himself said, it is time for him to leave, time for a fresh, enthusiastic person in the town manager's seat.

And, without reserve, we wish Lynch the best—in whatever endeavor he undertakes next.

I wish to thank you for your response(s) (or lack thereof) to my request for assistance in my attempt to obtain a "reverse mortgage"

under the Home Equity Conversion

Mortgage Program.

I especially want to thank Rep. J.

Brennan (first response) and Rep.

Olympia Snowe for her warm and kind remarks and action—unfortunately all to no avail.

To the rest of you and your "cop-out"

excuses, i.e., "Temporary law,"

"Mobile homes depreciate—same as an automobile," "Will have your thoughts in mind," etc. I say a pox on all your names.

All I asked for was a fair chance at applying for this program and this was denied me. I don't care how you cut the cake—the icing is still discrimination whether temporary or not.

I am now facing a foreclosure action by Chrysler First Financial Service on a—get this—15 percent interest mortgage, because I'm 70 days behind in payments. It is impossible to pay everyone on $35 per month. Chrysler advised me to sell everything and move to town so I could walk to the stores which would "be beneficial to my health," etc.

ACLU said (over the phone) they would consider the case "if you were black."

ABA never answered.

Governor John McKernan, Senator

John Heinz and Senator Rockefeller never answered.

AARP—upon whom I utterly depended for a national campaign to sway Congresspersons, answered with a private letter—no help at all in getting pressure applied nationwide.

At this point I suppose I will let Chrysler foreclose and "fold my tent like the Arabs (ha) and silently steal away." To where?

Election Day is but two months plus away and it will be enjoyable casting my vote—especially this year.

Again, thank you, for your inaction and you know who you are—let your hands be your guides as they have been in your correspondence to me.

I'm sorry to have wasted your time and efforts (?).

HITCHHIKING MOOSE

To the Editor:

The other day my friend and I were on our way to Bethel, when we came upon the strangest thing! You'd never believe it unless you were there—there stood a "big moose" with his thumb out, hitchhiking for a ride. So my friend and I decided to stop and ask him where he was going.

Mr. Moose said, "Out of Bethel. It's too expensive here for me."

We had a problem—my "rabbit" was too small and the seatbelt too short. So Mr. Moose thanked us anyway for stopping and guessed he'd have to wait for a truck to come by!

Don't solve one problem by creating another

I'm fairly new to Bethel, only living here three years now. But I grew up in a small town like it in New Hampshire, a village with similar north country history, staunch personal and community values and similar problems.

I saw the same problems in Colorado, where I lived for 15 years, and served both on the Winter Park Comprehensive Land Use Planning Board and, for a year, on the Colorado State Land Use Commission.

The questions and forces at work have a familiar ring... I know towns are all different, but all have the same complexity, same tangle of motives, same frantic search for solutions, same too frequent reach for what appears to be the simple answer, and the developer who is only too willing to provide it.

Those of us who oppose the Bethel Park Apartments project have been cast in various lights, from selfish villagers, whose only objection arises from the project being in our particular backyards, to upper class elitists, who in the recent happless innuendo of the Bethel Citizen bear some responsibility for a fundamental aversion to low and moderate income people who might become our neighbors.

Such broad brush slaps at the efforts of concerned citizens to inquire intelligently into the consistency and thoroughness of the planning, its logic and purpose, belie only the desire amongst some of our officialdom, and certainly the developers, that Bethelites remain conveniently asleep.

The fact is the residents of the neighborhood, the abutters and others, are qualified members of that much larger group of people, those of low and moderate income who already live in Bethel.

My father grew up in Rumford working in the paper mill. My mother's family lived their lives in Mexico, and her father drove Grand Union Tea Company products around this area in a horse and buggy.

In the neighborhood around the proposed development I really cannot think of anyone who doesn't fall somewhere in the low to moderate income bracket.

In fact, we are part of that very population in Bethel which is numerous enough, as Linda Saunders recently stated, to qualify the town for Block Grant money to fix the sewer without needing an affordable housing project.

The abutters have been called the villains of the project. In fact, the abutters simply have been among those who most clearly recognize the hazard this project represents to this whole side of town.

Do we need it? The first study done was not enough to convince the Block Grant agency that affordable housing was needed.

Bethel Town Manager Rodney Lynch... portrays Bethel as lying flat on its back before its sewer problem, with its only hope of resuscitation the Bethel Park project. He has remarked that the entire grant proposal would have to be rewritten if Bethel's current income levels were used as the basis, as Linda Saunders suggested. She is a member of both the affordable housing and sewer study committees. For that inconvenience and short delay it seems worth saving the shape of one of Bethel's central neighborhoods. (In the meantime, one Planning Board member has remarked that affordable housing is in ample supply locally. She looked for it and found it.)

It is specifically because our sense of our area's traditional shape, both natural character and community design, is so strong that we so fundamentally question the Bethel Park project.

At the very least it seems a good principle of management to make certain one problem is not solved by creating another one.

Tying Bethel's sewer renewal to the Bethel Park Apartments just changes the problem and moves it upstream. The 48 dwelling units will double the population density of the village, (adding 150 plus people) double or more the traffic activity in the area (136 parking spaces are planned). Spring, Chapman and Mason Streets will immediately and unavoidably change from relatively peaceful neighborhood streets to thoroughfares...

This view can, of course, be criticized as being anti-development and sentimental. The shoe fits the other foot as well, with Bethel Park taking up the first 48 taps on a revitalized sewer system, everybody else's development is going to wait. Gleichman has the right to succeed, as do we all, and to fail—so long as neither infringes on those same rights equally sacred to other members of the community.

And Gleichman's technical data is inadequate at best, flawed at worst. The entire issue of drainage and water engineering is played with but never seriously concluded. TSI, Gleichman's consulting engineer, happily pointed out in a letter that Sanding Brook did not "possess" the characteristics necessary to have a "flood plain" associated with its flow channel. The letter neglects to note that the Soil Conservation Service had come to that conclusion based on a theoretical computer model and not an actual inspection of the stream area. The resulting "map" is a long, narrow trapezoid bearing no resemblance at all to the real ground. On the other hand, the engineer also states that those who have seen Sanding Brook year after year agree it floods regularly in any wet period. More precisely, in our recent week of rain six plus inches fell in three days, separated by a day and a half respite. By TSI's own calculations the site/stream area experienced either two, two year storms (at 3.1 inches per 24 hours) or one, 25 year storm (at 5.9 inches per 24 hours). And even the most casual observer could have seen that the flow was nothing close to spring thaw. (TSI's calculations for the 50 year storm are the same as for two-year storm—I assume a clerical error). Therefore, though the flood plain was removed from the "map" to make FMHA money available to a developer, Sanding Brook remains unpersuaded. It floods dramatically and must be considered a critical element in the project's engineering...

The intent, and Gleichman's hope clearly, was not to have to deal with Sanding Brook at all. Gleichman's site plan simply ignores the existence of the stream as if it would have no effect on their construction and their construction would have no effect on the stream and contiguous lands. The attitude has been straight forward: out of sight, out of mind.

Removal of the flood plain from the map may have allowed Bethel Park Apartments federal funding, but it has hardly caused Sanding Brook's waters to part. After the recent rains I walked the entire area again. The stream ran over the low ground, extending from the upper end across a strip some 40 feet wide, extending at one point to within 15 feet of a building corner stake, and reentered the normal flow channel at the lower end of the property. Three spring flows ran down across the higher ground. Do a simple experiment: let a sponge fill with water, then place a brick on it. I would submit that TSI's and Gleichman's runoff figures and their judgement of the impact of this project on the surrounding area is woefully modest...

It is also true that the word, "affordable," has all the necessary magic of other good words, like "family," "education," "community." But that magic should not blind anybody to what this project is about. It is about business, the construction business, by and for Gleichman, 1,000 units in Maine worth $83 million, a combination of federal loans to a landlord receiving federally subsidized rents.

The project addresses Gleichman's needs and spirit for enterprise. Bethel is not on its back in need of this project. I hope the Planning Board and Selectmen can grasp this and not underwrite a wholesale alteration of Bethel's central area.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Dr. Stanley R. Howe, Director of the Bethel Historical Society, announced this week that the society has received grants from the Bingham Betterment Fund and the Bingham Trust for Charity to prepare a pictorial history of Bethel for publication in 1991.

Conceived as part of Bethel's Maine Street '90 activities, the project will focus on a narrative history of the town from its earliest days to the present, with some several hundred illustrations.

Named by the society's trustees to prepare the manuscript, select the illustrations, and write the captions is Randall H. Bennett, the society's curator of collections, whose earlier book "Oxford County, Maine: A guide to its Historic Architecture (1987)" won wide acclaim.

Bennett has also edited and published the book "Sunday River Sketches: A New England Chronicle (1977)," a history of Riley Plantation and the Sunday River valley.

As a result of his many publications, including numerous articles on historical subjects, Bennett was awarded a certificate of commendation from the American Association for State and Local History in 1987.

Bennett's Bethel roots extend back to 1819, when some of his ancestors settled in the Grover Hill section of the town; his strong interest in genealogy resulted in a 200-page history of the New England Fifield family, published last fall.

"With his great familiarity with Bethel history and his superb eye for details, he is the ideal person for this project," said Howe. "We are extremely grateful to the two Bingham foundations for their support of what should be a remarkable book."

A component of this project was a plan for a pictorial history prepared by a graduate student intern earlier this year. Working under the direction of Howe was Joyce Wanger of Rumford, a Master of Arts student at West Virginia University, who examined the collections of the Bethel Historical Society with the purpose of proposing a strategy for topics to be included along with relevant illustrations. This plan covers topics to be included in Bennett's book.

No comprehensive study of Bethel's past has appeared since Dr. Wm. B. Lapham's "History of Bethel," published in 1891 and reprinted by the Bethel Historical Society in 1981 with a new introductory essay by Howe.

A public reception officially announcing the Bethel pictorial history project was held on Friday, Aug. 10, in the meeting house of the Dr. Moses Mason House, the Bethel Historical Society's headquarters, as part of the Sudbury Canada Days events.

Forest industry speakers discuss Project Landshare

Project Landshare was the topic of discussion at last week's breakfast meeting of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

Ted Johnston, of the Maine Forest Products Council, and Bob Withrow, of Boise-Cascade Corp., described the program as "an effort to maintain good relationships between private landowners and recreationists."

Project Landshare participants post their land, but with bright green-and-white signs indicating that their land is open to the public, not closed.

"Your care will help keep these working woodlands open for everyone," the signs advise hunters, fishermen, trappers, hikers and other who use the woods for recreational purposes.

Johnston put the two-year-old program firmly in the context of Maine's long tradition of private ownership and public use for its woodlands.

He said the project is also in part an attempt to convey to recreational users the message that it is the private landowner, not the state or federal government, that is keeping Maine woodlands open.

The project also encourages the public to exercise that privilege in a responsible manner, he said, and not to engage in activities that could harm the woodlands—and threaten continued public access.

As an indication of the public's acceptance of the program, Johnston pointed out that more than 1,000 Project Landshare signs have been in the woods through the last two hunting seasons—and none has been shot up.

Boise-Cascade's Withrow described his company's participation in the project.

Withrow manages Boise-Cascade's 500,000 acres in northern New England, which, he said, are open to the public without charge.

He displayed a large map of the state that showed the location of the scattered holdings and spelled how the company hoped the public would use them. The map is given out on request anyone wishing to use Boise-Cascade lands.

Withrow and Johnston were introduced by Leon Favreau, president of Bethel Furniture Stock and chairman of the chamber's legislative committee. All three men argued that private ownership and public use were compatible, and that private landowners over the years have proven themselves to be responsible stewards of the land.

Johnston also pointed out that forest products are the state's number one industry, generating more than twice the income of tourism.

Chamber member Wende Gray, who has been active in a number of tourism-promotion campaigns, noted that few of the chamber members present for the breakfast were from tourism-related businesses.

She suggested that, given the make up of the audience present, Johnston and Withrow were "preaching to the choir," and she recommended that they also take their message to a larger public—for example, by enclosing copies of the Project Landshare brochure with mailings to cross-country skiers or by having foresters accompany area school children when they go on school-sponsored cross-country-skiing/nature trips.

Two dozen chamber members attended last week's meeting, which was held at the Bethel Inn.

Property tax relief applications in the mail

Governor John McKernan is asking Maine resident property taxpayers to watch their mailboxes for applications for the Maine Residents Property Tax Program. Starting today, applications for the state's property tax relief program will be mailed to over 111,000 Maine households, the Governor said.

During the last legislative session, the Governor and the Legislature approved $20.1 million for property tax relief and rent refund efforts for this year's program.

Here are the eligibility requirements:

- General Property Tax or Rent Refund (maximum refund $5,000).
- A homeowner or renter of any age who was a resident of Maine for all of 1989.
- A homeowner whose property tax is more than 4.5 percent of their income.
- A renter whose rent is more than 30 percent of their income.
- Household income cannot exceed been formally voted on by the town, the board was not legally required to apply the four undue-hardship conditions.

The letter, written by planner John Maloney, said the board was free to use "common sense," in place of the hardship test.

Using that criterion, the board on Thursday unanimously approved the access ramp.

In his letter, Maloney said the appeals board's legal informal status was similar to that of many municipal boards in the state. He said, however, that is "not a good situation," and urged that the town's selectmen have the board and its decision-making rules formally voted on by the town.

Selectman Raymond Seamas, who attended Thursday's meeting, said the selectmen will put the matter before voters at either a special town meeting in the fall, or at the town annual meeting in March.

SANDRA GUNTHER

$60,000 for 1989. Elderly Household Tax and Rent Refund (maximum refund $400).

- A homeowner or renter who lived alone, was 62 or older and had income of $8,000 or less during the year.
- A married couple who lived together, had household income of no more than $10,000 and either the husband or wife was at least 62 during 1989.
- A single person who lived with their dependent, had household income of no more than $10,000 and either the single person or dependent was at least 62 during 1989.
- Individuals between the ages of 55 and 62 who receive disability payments may qualify.

Renters who live in subsidized housing can only qualify for the Elderly Household Tax and Rent Refund Program.

Forms are available at the Bureau of Taxation in Augusta, municipal offices, Maine Department of Human Services field offices, Area Agency of Aging, and Community Action Agencies. Applications for the 1990 Maine Residents Property Tax Program may be filed between Aug. 1 and Dec. 31.

White Mountain Forest firewood policy changes

Effective Sept. 1 the White Mountain National Forest will charge for personal use firewood. The minimum charge will be $5 per cord and $10 per permit.

The decision to implement a charge policy was made after receiving direction from the Forest Service's Washington, D.C. headquarters. Administrative costs associated with firewood cutting prompted the decision.

Sandra Gunther joins Mahosuc Realty

Mahosuc Realty, Inc. is pleased to announce that Sandra Gunther, a native of Bethel, has joined our agency.

Gunther's community involvement, including volunteer work with the local health clinic, participation in and officer of the Parent-Teacher Association, member of the Bethel Area Work Council, member of the Affordable Housing committee, as well as her current involvement as a member of the Board of Directors in the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, indicates her versatility and interests.

She is well known in the area, having worked for the local school system in several capacities for approximately 18 years, 12 of which were as a school bus driver. She was a substitute teacher for several years, and also worked as a receptionist/secretary and in the accounting department.

Gunther, who owned and operated her own successful real estate business, said she looks forward to serving her clients in real estate and rentals with renewed energy for years to come.

Selectmen, school board discuss funding options

SAD #44 School Board members met with local selectmen and their representatives last week to set goals for an upcoming meeting with local state legislators concerning the way state school-funding formulas are determined.

The issue, for most of those present at last week's meeting, was the rapidly escalating tax burden on local property owners.

The funding of schools in SAD #44 is based solely on property tax evaluation. Some committee members at last week's meeting expressed concern that taxpayers can't absorb any more tax hikes and will look to cut back on school expenses.

Among the ideas discussed at the meeting was a proposal to base the local formula half on income and half on property tax of individuals. Such an alteration of the local (as opposed to state) funding formula is an option for school districts.

But School Director John Brown, who chaired the meeting, said that he felt a workable formula would be at least two years in the making.

If the state's—rather than the local—school-funding formulas are changed, money for schools will have to come from a different source. Those at the meeting wondered what this source might be—an increase in sales tax, income tax, or gas tax. The possibility of a property-tax cap was also discussed.

Pat Doon, representing the Bethel selectmen, said that she felt that when "houses sell at prices above what the local economy dictates, it gives an unfair state evaluation" of property worth.

Committee members decided that their voices alone would not bring change at a state level. The group will try to get local townpeople, teachers, the Maine Municipal Association, Maine School Management and the Maine Teachers Association together to work on tax reform and to recommend changes to state legislators.

The goals settled on for the September meeting include a discussion of revising the school formula, reforming the property tax system, getting the various organizations to cooperate with one another, and exploring what kind of tax reform it might be possible to get through the legislature.

Doon said that one goal would be "getting everybody sitting in the same boat without tipping it over."

The meeting with legislators will be held Sept. 13, at 7 p.m., in the Telstar library.

W. Paris selectmen dispute DEP fine

By CAROL L. CORRIVEAU

The West Paris selectmen last Thursday night discussed the Department of Environmental Protection's $260 fine to the town for failure to remove an underground fuel storage tank by October, 1989.

The town has not used the tanks since October and at March town meeting voters approved funds to remove the tank by April 12, 1990.

The selectmen sent a letter to the DEP Bureau of Oil and Hazardous Materials Control last week disputing the fine.

On other matters, Selectmen Phil

G'wood appeals board reverses itself and OKs town office access ramp

The Greenwood Appeals Board has approved a variance appeal for the handicapped access ramp located on the Bird Hill Road side of the town office building.

The action, taken at a special meeting Thursday, was a reversal of an appeals board's decision in June to deny the appeal.

The town's planning board had declined to issue permit for the ramp, because it was within the 50-foot setback requirement from the road.

The building permit application was also after the fact, as the ramp had already been completed when the permit was applied for.

The appeals board had initially upheld the planning board's denial, ruling that the situation did not meet the four conditions required for a determination of "undue hardship."

Following the June meeting, however, the board received a letter from the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments advising that since neither the appeals board itself nor its decision-making criteria had ever

1990-91 school bus rules

The following policy concerning the conduct of pupils transported has been set forth by the SAD #44 Board of Directors:

The right of pupils to ride in the school bus is based on their behavior and observance of rules pertaining to proper conduct.

Drivers are authorized to enforce these rules and to make suggestions in line with good citizenship.

Meeting the bus:

- All pupils must be on time.
- Pupils walking on the highway to a bus stop should always walk on the left, on the shoulder of the road, facing traffic.

- Pupils when crossing the highway, should walk, not run.
- Pupils must not run alongside the bus when it is moving.

On the bus:

- Drivers must obey the driver who has full charge of the bus.

- Pupils must not extend arms, legs or head out of the bus.

- Pupils must go to their seats, without crowding or pushing, and remain seated while the bus is in motion.

- Pupils must refrain from talking with the driver, except in an emergency.

- Pupils must not tamper with the emergency door or any other part of the bus equipment.

- Pupils must not mar or deface the bus. Damage done to seats or other equipment must be paid for by the pupil. Students will be excluded from the bus until restitution is made.

- With the driver's permission, students may open the windows.

- Pupils must not fight or scuffle in the bus or create any disturbance.

- Pupils must not shout to pedestrians or occupants of other vehicles.

- Pupils must not throw objects out of or within the bus.

- Pupils must not place lunch boxes or other objects in the aisle of the bus.

- Pupils who must cross the highway after leaving the bus will wait in the front of the bus until the bus driver directs them to cross the highway.

- Pupils must not transport any animals, firearms, explosives or anything of a dangerous nature.

- Pupils must not occupy the bus driver's seat, operate the school bus or tamper with any of its controls.

- Pupils must comply with the instructions of the bus driver in transporting any materials or supplies.

- Pupils riding to school will be allowed to get off only at their assigned school.

- Elementary students will be dropped off at their morning bus stop unless they have a note from their parents.

- Smoking is strictly forbidden.

- If the student disobeys any of the above rules, the following procedure will be followed:

The bus driver will verbally warn/inform the student of an infraction.

When a bus conduct report is submitted, the bus driver will communicate with the building principal before administrative disposition of the case. The disposition may include:

Parental notification; disciplinary action with the school; temporary suspension from the bus of up to ten days. The building principal will complete the bus conduct report and distribute copies of the report to the appropriate parties. Before suspension from the school bus can occur, a parental conference will be held and should include the following individuals: the student, the parents, the bus driver, the building principal and the director of transportation.

summer school wrap-up

Parents, students and summer school staff gathered on July 30 to celebrate the efforts and achievements of summer school students.

The ceremony opened with comments from director, Kathy Slack, who said attributed the students' positive attitudes towards learning to an excellent teaching staff and to a smaller classroom environment.

Also, Slack suggested that people from the community consider investing in an enrichment summer program offering additional activities aside from just academics.

After the preliminary commentaries, each teacher came forward to present awards, as follows:

Excellence in Academic Achievement: English I and II, Kim Sprague; General Math, Brian Chase; General Science, Brad McLain and Shannon Bates; Algebra I and II, Teresa Connell.

Highest Overall Effort and Achievement: English 8-10, Howard Rice.

Excellence in Academic Effort:

Mike Evans.

Highest Achievement in Writing: Shannon Bates.

Highest Achievement in Reading: Jody Brooks.

Excellence in Academic Improvement: Hannah Kimball.

Most Dependable: Sheila Morin.

Teacher's Aide Award: Bryan Bennett.

Teacher's Award: Chris Hutchins.

Following the individual awards, Slack presented each student with a certificate verifying completion of coursework. The list of graduates are:

Pre-Algebra, Jacob Bartholomew;

General Science and English, Shannon Bates, Tammy Mason, Brad McLain, Howard Rice, Faith Walker; General

Math and English, Bryan Bennett, Brian Chase, Christian Hutchins, Sheila Morin; General Science, Bob Jo Benson; English, Jody Brooks, Mike Evans, Alden Mason, Kim Sprague, Jake Tyler; Algebra I, Arnold Clark, Hannah Kimball, Howard

Roberts; Algebra II, Teresa Connell, Keith Manjournides; English and Algebra II, Keith Ryerson.

One of the highlights of the day's event was the presentation of Jake Tyler's diploma by Dewaine Craig and Ted Davis. Prior to presentation, Craig expressed admiration for Tyler's determination to continue with his schooling so he could graduate. All applauded Tyler as he arose to receive his diploma.

Craig also mentioned Mike Evans as a diploma recipient but Evans wasn't present at the ceremony.

Upon completion of the awards ceremony, parents, friends, staff and students participated in an informal reception. Punch and juice were served. Compliments were made by Brenda Bartholomew of Newry, and a beautifully decorated cake prepared by Kathi Schandelmeyer of the Bread and Butter Bake Shop.

Regional Roundup

Spill is reported at Boise Cascade

RUMFORD—Boise Cascade's Rumford mill encountered an unanticipated problem last Thursday while performing routine maintenance on a paper machine.

According to Boise's spokesman Eric Baxter, "While flushing a line on a paper machine, water backed up and overflowed into storage tank containing titanium dioxide. That tank overflowed and diluted titanium dioxide spilled into the mill's internal water treatment system."

"The spill appears to be the result of a procedural error and not a result of equipment failure," Baxter said.

The company estimates that about 1,300 gallons of diluted titanium dioxide were put through the mill's treatment system and ultimately discharged for the river or its aquatic life. It will not affect the PH level or oxygen level of the river. What it does do is create a murky appearance in the river that should dissipate relatively quickly."

Boise notified the Department of Environmental Protection as soon as the incident was discovered. DEP officials could not be reached for comment.

Titanium dioxide is an expensive paper making process additive that is used to enhance brightness in high quality coated paper.

Washout near Cascade Flats feared

GORHAM, N.H.—Selectmen here say they fear the possibility of a major washout on Tinkerbrook Hill near Cascade Flats, if "we have just one more major rainstorm like Monday's," says Selectman Mike Waddell.

"The eight-inch water main and sewer main are within inches of washout and in danger of breaking. The whole hill is going—from 50 to 100 feet on one side of the washout," says Waddell. "A 200-foot stretch is in danger of sliding down to the river, unless something is done right away," he adds.

The sewer and water mains serve Cascade Flats and Cascade Hill residents, as well as James River's Cascade Mill. Since late last fall, the upper section of the road—which goes off the Berlin-Gorham Road (Route 10)—had only been open to one-lane traffic because of the sinking road bed and bulging retaining wall. State Engineer John Ross' prophecy given to selectmen at the time—that the wall "would be there forever"—has now been proven invalid, says Waddell.

According to Selectman Chairman Dave Carlson, the original problem of the road apparently lies with the state-installed culvert, underneath the road on the west side. A bad connection in the culvert has apparently caused water to go through the cracks, washing out the gravel. Town officials are now worried about the fallen-in road that is blocking the culvert, causing the water to drain into Tinker Brook which caused the landslide.

Bryant Pond

By ALICE HOYT

Brian and Brenda Hathaway are touring France, Switzerland and Germany with the University of New Hampshire Jazz Band. They are the grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Elden Hathaway.

Sarah Stowell and Becky Chandler attended the Conservation Camp at Bryant Pond for a week.

The Historical Society has a few souvenir items from Bryant Pond. Mary Billings has done some work on labels in the museum. Much thanks. Ray Burnham has donated a fireman's bucket. The Historical Society offers information programs to the public. We can all benefit from learning more about our heritage. Olive Risko has given the museum a shoe form that once belonged to Carl Dudley.

Kaye Glines of Danbury, N.H. visited her mother, Helen Ring, over the weekend.

Beatrice Farnum and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Chase on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hoyt, Ben and Chris, Verna Swan and Clara Whitman have been guests of Louis and Leatrice Collar in Connecticut from Monday-Thursday.

A long way from Songo Pond, July 31, Laird River, Hot Springs, British Columbia.

After visiting my brother in Portland, Ore. a few days we headed north to Alaska. Some new, unexpected experience seemed to face us each day. The biggest being a four-day breakdown in the middle of a long stretch of uninhabited highway. Up in this area you can drive hundreds of miles without seeing much civilization.

signs from families in South Paris, Oxford and Hebron, too. We saw a man taking one of his license plates and putting it up. A man from Union had put up a bluebird house and this year a mother bird hatched three baby bluebirds.

A nice museum is also situated at Watson Lake, the "Gateway to the Yukon," depicting the history of the Alaskan Highway.

Traveling these mountain highways is another experience by itself. The scenery is beautiful in a rugged, awesome way.

Hope all is well back home.

Maine—the way life ought to be. It's good to be back home again. I can't believe I did the whole thing. Arrived back here with Ray and Bertha, Sunday afternoon. Am still trying to catch up on many things.

George Parsons of California is spending some time with his brother Jack Parsons and son Tom. What a heartbreaking sorrow to us in this area on the sudden loss of such a dear friend and neighbor. We will miss you, Eleanor.

Weston Flint and Winona Verrill of South Paris were recent visitors of Mrs. Elmira Doyen.

The pond rose several inches during the heavy rain last weekend.

Norma and I went to Norway Wednesday for errands needing to be done and then called on Maxine Brown at the Home for Creative Living, also on Joan Coolidge and Diane Leacock at Market Square Health Center and Irene Hutchinson at Convenient Living Center. Learned later that Gladys Griner is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Christine Kimball observed her birthday Thursday enjoying lunch with Mary Dooen, Rita Wilson and Jan Cross. In the evening she went to daughter's Alberta in Norway with friends for choir practice. Christine went one day with Pam Rugg to take her nephew home to Topsham. They also visited with Majorie Sweeney.

Connie Hindman and her mother were in Rumford on Thursday.

My nephew, Roy Robinson, Jr. from California visited Norma and David while I was away after visiting other relatives in the state and Massachusetts.

State crews are putting up new guardrails along the Hunt's Corner Road. The detour has now been lifted and traffic can use the new cement bridge in the southern end of the township.

Opportunities are seldom labeled. Just received word that my brother in Oregon has had another stroke and is now a patient at a private adult care center.

East Bethel

By NANCY H. MERCER

There will be a church service at the East Bethel Church, Sunday, Aug. 26, at 2 p.m. This will be the last service this summer. The attendance has been good.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Wilkes from Cumberland were visitors at the Bartlett homestead on Aug. 5.

Mr. Bob Emens from South Paris visited Fred Haines on Aug. 11.

Florence Hastings visited Floribel Haines on Aug. 11 in the afternoon.

Edward Hastings from Billings, Mont. is visiting friends and relatives in the area. The Hastings family held a reunion in Fryeburg on Aug. 12.

Robert and Phyllis Hastings, Rudi and Barbara Hokala, Warren Hastings with daughter Ellen and son Eric with his wife Celeste and son Zackary were present.

Ms. Wally Mullen has a baby boy. Alder River Grange #145 held a regular meeting on Aug. 10 with the Worthy Deputies Lewis and Myrtle Bisbee present for inspection. There were 10 members present and seven visitors. The sale will possibly be held Labor Day weekend.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Jim and Goldie Mason recently returned from a seven-week trip across the United States. They spent a long weekend at Campton Academy near Loveland, Colo. with friends. Then they traveled on for a three day visit with their daughter-in-law's, Tracie Mason, parents in Corrales, N.M. Next they stopped in Santa Barbara, Calif. for a couple days to visit with Jim's old schoolmate. Then they traveled on to Covelo, Calif. to visit Goldie's aunt Betty Appleby Hugo. They, also, spent some time in various northwest logging operations.

They saw all kinds of wild game, including bison, elk, mule deer, big horn sheep, antelope, coyote, white tail deer and all kinds of other critters and snakes. They stopped at times on the prairie and walked in big games wintering areas. There they picked up some antlers from cowboys that were herding cattle, sheep and horses. They enjoyed the Indian reservations, and Pueblos. It was neat to be able to observe their native ways of living and the various crafts they artfully create, remark Goldie.

They visited Mt. Rushmore; Grand Canyon; Lion Canyon; Painted Desert; Petrified Forest; Majave Desert; Redwood Forest; Calgary, Alberta, Canada Stampede; Yellowstone Glacier National Park; Grand Tetons National Park. They, also, had the privilege of attending the General Conference Session of S.D.A. at Hoosier Dome in Indianapolis, Ind. along with 50,000 other church members from all over the world.

Then on to Niagara Falls. Their last stop was at Walton, N.Y. to attend the 33rd Mason family reunion.

They reported that the U.S.A. was a fabulous country. They had a very interesting trip.

Weekend guests of Nicholas, Marta and Eric Clements were Joel and Marilyn Clausen and two of their three sons, Troy and Aaron, from West Bend, Wis. The Clements and Clausen families met and became friends while attending Syracuse University in Syracuse, N.Y. in 1970. The weekend was spent reminiscing, visiting areas of interest in West Paris and just enjoying each other's company.

Also spending time recently with the Clements family was their niece, Jean Gray, and children, Ashley, Nathan, Rachel and Cathleen of LaGrange. Part of their visit was spent preparing for the Clements family reunion held in Cumberland Center, which all attended together on Aug. 19.

Nicholas and Marta Clements were among area residents who attended the wedding of Suzanne Roy and Kenneth Whitney in Locke Mills. The wedding was held under a canopy and spirits were not dampened, despite the pouring rain. Suzanne is the daughter of Richard and Ann Roy of Locke Mills and Ken is the son of Muriel Whitney of Bethel.

Saturday, the girls, Esther Davis, Edith Deegan and Phyllis Stevens took a bus tour on the "Maine Line Bus Tour" driven by Paul Lowe who is Phyllis Lowe's son. There were 40 on the bus, they started at 7 a.m. from Oxford Hills School grounds. At Kennebunk they had breakfast. After arriving in Boston Harbor they boarded a boat and traveled around the harbor. Dinner was served on the boat which consisted of a lobster, potato, corn, some clams, coldslaw and watermelon. On the boat they were entertained with music, dancers and singing. Some of the waitresses help on this too. When they came on land again they had two places to go, to the aquarium or Quincy Market. Esther's group went to the aquarium. Coming home they bought their supper at Kennebunk, arriving at South Paris at 8:30. The girls reported a heavy rain in Boston and on the boat but all went well and they had fun. That's what counts.

Saturday, Olive Davis called on Helvi Tuuci at her camp on North Pond and did it pour. Never saw it rain harder. The pond is very high now, up to her wharf.

Sunday I spent in Bridgton with my niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews. They had a reunion of their family as their son Gary Andrews, his wife Jackie and two children, Isaac and Phyllis, were home for a week from Oregon. They flew on a humid and cloudy night so had to take the bus from Manchester to Portland which brought them home by 3 a.m., which was hard with two children in tow. They are returning home this coming Wednesday.

Sunday party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin McGill caddy, Daniele and Kevin, Jr. of South Portland; Mrs. Nancy Smith; Gray's family as listed above of Eugene Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Winkley, Donna and Brian of Northboro, Mass., who came in their camper; Sylvia Andrews brother Ernest and Jeanne Harmon and daughter Hallie Downing; George and Terry Harmon and baby Gregory; Buddy Babb a cousin of the family; and aunt Olive Davis.

A big picnic lunch was served by the host in the grove in back of their house. Everyone visited until afternoon when many of them played ball in the field out front of the house. Sharon, Dick and Julie Goldsmith Hoover were also in attendance. Daphni Hoover had to work at Shorelands that afternoon so wasn't able to be at the picnic. All enjoyed the get-together seeing Gary's family again.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks took me to West Paris to the Pomona pink sash night, Tuesday, Aug. 7, and did it pour going down, but they had a big turn out just the same. I came back with Olive Risko.

Laura Heikkinen called on Olive Davis Thursday night and we enjoyed looking over some of the old slides Waina Heikkinen had taken in the older days of their home and of people in the younger days blueberrying, etc. Bertha Benoit called on me Saturday and brought me some mixed spices of Raleigh products, so I could make up my relish. We entertained ourselves with playing and singing some of the songs I wrote. I hope to use one on music night in the Grange, Aug. 20. This is open house folks, all are invited, if they like music, to come at 7:30 to Franklin Grange. Come and see us.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nero of Milford, Mass. attended the wedding of Joyce Hathaway's niece, Beth Ann Cummings, who was married to Scott Walker at the Catholic Church in Caribou. They traveled in their motor home to their destination. After the wedding a reception was held with lunch served at the Loring Air Force Base which they all attended. This took place on a very rainy day.

The Historical Society extend an invitation to come in their home at Bryant Pond and see their old furniture, china glass, costumes, photos, tools, books and many, many other articles in their building. They are open every Saturday afternoon during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young called on Olive Davis Monday morning.

At Andover...

Elderwood Manor Items
by Florence Hall
Callers at Anne Fox were Nancy Fox of West Bethel and Lisa York of South Paris.

Louise Powell of Hale and Bernice Wing of Dixfield visited Alma Hewey. Elizabeth Sennett went on the bus to Rumbold on Wednesday.

Betty and Ray Hodsdon of Rhode Island were guests of her mother, Flora Whitten, over the weekend.

Gloria Chamberlin of Madison with her mother, Catherine McGuire, attended a family reunion.

Thought for the day: The stillest tongue can be the truest friend. Euripides.

Calvary Congregational Church
Rev. Donald Grover's message: "The Blissful Life," Psalm, 100:1-4, "Pleasant Knowledge; A blessed relationship; Blessful service; Blessful fellowship. Psalm 81:10, "Open thy mouth wide and I will fill it."

Missionary moments: A letter read from D.M. Stearns missionary fund. We have a part in the Ron Knightly's Ministry in the Northwest Territory who serve under this mission.

Closing hymn: "I Need Thee Every Hour."

Aug. 26 and Sept. 2 Pastor and Mrs.

Grover will be on vacation. Rev. Al Troaster will be here at that time to fill the pulpit.

West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Barbara,
I sit down to write, with my little computer perched on my lap, and I think of you and Hank. I think of you because it's our anniversary...our 33rd anniversary. And as I recall the last oh-so-many-years, and all the good times that Donald and I have shared, I can't help remembering that you were on hand for lots of them. You were the one who would show up when I needed you the most. You were the one with all the great recipes and all the enthusiasm for putting on a "do."

When we invited a few hundred relatives and friends to help us celebrate our silver day, you made hundreds and hundreds of goodies for our guests. You were always behind the scenes, filling platters, issuing orders to underlings, having fun by helping. And now it's your turn to enjoy the spotlight. As I write this letter, it's our special day; but, by the time I deliver it, it will be your's. You and your Henry and lots of folks will celebrate your 40 years (!!) of conubial bliss with a grand gathering...and we plan to be two of the lots of folks who gather.

Up here in the hills, the soires are smaller, but no less special. Just last week, a crowd of well-wishers filled the Grange Hall to get in out of the rain and to make merry with Rupert Grover on the occasion of his 70th birthday. The in-house barbecue was the frosting on a cake that began at 6 a.m. out at the Grover farm. There, on a soggy slope, stood a line of marksmen and women, rifles raised, awaiting the signal to fire. Rupert's granddaughter, Rebecca, turned up the volume on the "Reveille" tape and held it under his bedroom window, while his sister Peg crowed a rousing rooster sound-alike. Then came the shots...70 in all...that roused Rupert (and innocent Ina) from his slumber. All of this by way of letting a fellow know that he is loved and that his life and times are honored by family and friends.

The "do" was organized by Rupert, Jr., Dan, Elsie and Christine (offspring of the birthday boy) with the enthusiastic assistance of spouses, siblings and grandchildren. All of the important scenes are forever frozen on tape (thanks to the perspicacity of grandson David) for the viewing pleasure of pals and posterity. Now that was some kind of birthday.

Later in the week, at a nearby hillside resort, several visitors from the south soaked up the rays and the ringing risibilities. Aunts of this writer (Ann Floyd, Dorothy Halloran and Maureen Rohl) gathered "on deck" for dips in the pool and dips in the cheese; gathered in the diningroom for lobster at lunch; gathered in the sunroom each evening for films and fun. (They're all pushovers for Donald's antics, so there was much laughter from morning to night).

And to add froth to the festivities, that visit was enhanced with an evening stopover by Richard and Laura (our son, his friend). They had just survived a day of white water rafting on the Penobscot, and they showed us the video that proved their pluck. Watching it was enough for us; doing it can be reserved for the decidedly more daring, thank you very much.

While we were enjoying the visit of aunts and offspring, the Hostermans were doing "offspring sans aunts" at the other end of the Flat Road. Daughter Sue Smith of Scituate, Mass. and grandson Peter of the same place spent a few days soaking a little picnicking, and even a little poolside punch at the abovementioned resort. Sue took home yet another basket of memories, crowded in beside the matricaria and the lupine and any other botanical beauties her mother could spare. She missed visiting with the next door neighbors, Arthur and Ruth Gilbert, since they were away entertaining their own offspring and others at their pondside plantation in Otisfield.

Life is rich in these mountains as you can see, Barb. We are constantly given chances to observe the splendor of the landscape and the dwellers thereon. And on your own "turf" you and Henry have the same opportunity. Family and friends are gathered in your name, shouting your praises; showering you with love and congratulations. Enjoy the acclamation, bask in the beneficence, luxuriate in the limelight. Allow us all to praise you and "his nibs" for 40 years of love and sharing and good works. And try to remember the ancient proverb...

"It's every bit as good to receive as to give; it's just a little harder to learn."

Love, C.B.

P.S. Linda and Reggie have a new baby...more next time.

Upton

By ARLINE BERNIER

Intermittent rains and hot weather are producing record vegetable crops at Heritage Farm. We are kept busy between customers and earnings.

Violette Bernier went to Clinton this week to visit her daughter Jan and her granddaughter.

The Planning Board met Monday. One permit application for a home on Backstreet was approved.

Debby Clark, Deirdre and Jim of Southport, Conn. spent several days with the Frenchs.

North Paris

By DORIS C. LAWRENCE

Saturday, Aug. 11, Mary Brett and Marian Cummings York had a family reunion at North Paris Community Hall, 35 there.

Sunday, Aug. 12, the descendants of Asa Freeman and Florilla Dunham Ellingwood 65th reunion was held at the North Paris Community Club with 55 attending. The oldest was Avis Stiller who was 95. The youngest was Kristin Cantwell who was two years old. Oliver and Pearl came from New Hampshire and were the furthest ones from away. George Gibbs brought a quilt owned by Ada Cumings and made by Florilla Dunham Ellingwood 100 years ago. Next year the reunion will be held at Howard Ellingwood's camp at West Sumner. The same officers were elected, president, Jerry Ellingwood; vice president, Lee Ellingwood; secretary and treasurer, Evelyn Chamberlain.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Melie Wing of Bryant Pond. He was our niece's husband.

Stanley Unikewicz of Connecticut has been visiting Joe Kalinowski for a few days.

Tuesday, Sept. 4, don't forget West Paris Senior Citizens, we meet at the Congregational Mission Church for a potluck dinner, bring your own utensils, for the entertainment the "Bedard Trio" and Richard Felt with his harmonica.

Saturday, Aug. 25, there will be a supper at North Paris Hall, starting at 5 p.m., numbers "One to 20" go first.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Oja have had their two grandchildren for a week.

Thursday, Aug. 16, I went to Eino and Marie Kuvajas to celebrate Marie's and my birthday, which was Aug. 15. A delicious supper and birthday cakes and ice cream. Quite a few there. A lot of nice gifts.

Callers have been Mr. and Mrs. Albert Health, Amanda and Jeremy, Richard Felt, Francis Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Joe Kaliwaski, Stanley Unikewicz, Stine Millet, Myrtle Downing, Marietta Penley, Brenda LaCroix, Howard Anderson and Sherry Thayer and Jason. Jason stayed a few hours, he went home with auntie Brenda.

Saturday, Sept. 1, a dance at West Paris Grange. Music by Richard Felt Band. Homemade pies.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

There are quiet hours and lonely hours. And hours that have no end. But the wonderful hours are those when you visit and talk with friends.

I had those hours on Friday, Aug. 10, when Larry and Jean took me for a lovely ride. It was hazy and the far view a bit misty, when we first left Greenwood for Trap Corner and the road to Sumner, Livermore and beyond.

One of the first things to attract our attention was the "tearing out" of the end of a barn.

Just an old barn beside the road. With weathered board all bent and bowed.

We stopped a few minutes now and then to look at a map or ask a direction. I recall a tiny building which we visited. There were many things of interest, old books, dishes, tools, clocks and toys. A forgotten memory of youth and childhood and days that used to be. This was a road to our past. There is something disconcerting about finding a toy from one's childhood in an antique shop for antique toys are fairly rare. Mass-produced toys weren't common until the 19th century and not all that many survived their young owners.

Next there were roads down country lanes, where road sides were covered by trees; some reaching to clasp hands above us. Beneath were the ferns, living laces that add elegance wherever they grow and complement every plant with which they are associated. The graceful fronds are divided to produce a delicate pattern that pleases the eye and greatly enhances the surroundings environment. Ferns often thrive under conditions, which limit the growth of flowering plants.

We passed through many little towns; little towns are lovely places, cool wide streets and friendly faces.

When past the Norland Establishment, home of the Washburn brothers, I was reminded of a Teachers' Convention and my visit there, also of the quaint little schoolhouse which we saw. (I also remembered a certain young teacher who drove a pair of oxen there). The Washburn brothers were Cadwallader, in a campaign against Vicksburg, elected to Congress; Elihu, a printer on Kennebec Journal at Augusta, elected to Congress, Secretary of State to President Grant but resigned to become Minister of France; William, a U.S. Senator and all did many other things too numerous to mention here.

We rode on, had a delightful lunch then noticed the beautiful farm lands, monuments to peoples' perseverance and hard labor.

We were interested in the lovely views along the Androscoggin River. Some times it rained hard then the light came through. Out of the forest stood the mountains, wholly unveiled, filling all the view like a separate, new born world—all but the tops where a puffy beret of clouds sat jauntily, refusing to run away.

Finally, our destination; a small house surrounded by richly colored flowers everywhere. My eyes took in the pleasant little house, the flower garden, everything. The garden was full of tenderly arranged colors and texture, dewy petals and foliage, full and delicate. The view quickened the heart. We walked through the garden with the owner and looked down the rows. We felt the success of the growth there in the earth. My senses responded to the seedlings, the new shoots and the beauty over all.

Each time a traveler stops to admire this garden the lady who made it is remembered. In this quiet corner, she has enriched all who come her way.

Many times in life we find that the saying, "No man is an island" is profoundly true. A sea of differences may stretch between two people, but it is possible to cross it if both are willing.

I am truly grateful to my friends, Larry and Jean, who thought of me who took me there. I shall long remember the ride and the Androscoggin River flowing through gently rolling hills.

Kathy Curtis is a patient at the Norway hospital at this time and Dorothy Curtis is having surgery at the C.M.M.C. Hospital this morning, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Betts' family has been visiting them this week.

Nita and Katherine Hakala, local, and Jean Schaffer visited me the first of the week.

Rena Curtis has been in Lewiston several times to visit Dot Curtis.

Dot Betts and I went for lunch with several teachers on Wednesday then spent the afternoon with Doris Slattery of West Paris.

James Miclon to the investigation. Guidelines for the operation were drawn up by District Attorney Janet Mills and Assistant Attorney General Greg Motta, of the U.S. Attorney's office in Bangor.

On Wednesday, Stowell and Miclon travelled to Bangor, where they completed the paperwork for a search warrant. Their affidavit and request was signed by Justice Edward H. Keith, a U.S. magistrate.

On Thursday morning, Stowell and Miclon, accompanied by other officers from the BPD and OCSO and by agents of the Bureau of Intergovernmental Drug Enforcement, raided the location and confiscated the plants.

Taking part in the operation were Bethel Senior Patrol Officer Dale Bellman, Officer Darrian Tripp, Corporal Garry Hill, and Reserve Officer April Crowley, as well as Deputy Sheriff Duffy Ellsworth.

plication for the town, received word of the award in a letter dated Aug. 14 from Governor John R. McKernan, Jr.

"I am pleased to inform you that the Town of Bethel has been awarded a 1990 Community Development Block Grant of $285,000 and a 1991 Reserve Grant of $14,900," McKernan wrote.

Furthermore, he wrote, "You may be proud of your community's effort to design a successful grant application. There were 60 applications this year. Available federal funds allowed awards to only 20 communities."

In a press release from the DECD office dated Aug. 15, McKernan was quoted as saying, "In Bethel, the two-year grant will enable the community to reconstruct public sewer and water infrastructure. The improved infrastructure will assist the development of affordable housing. The unique nature of the public/private efforts in the CDBG process ensures that there is substantial local support for these projects, and that is crucial to making them long-term successes."

Smith reunion held in Fryeburg Aug. 5

The descendants of Simon A. and Mary Ann McKean Smith gathered at Fryeburg Fairgrounds on Sunday, Aug. 5, for their annual reunion.

This was the ninth Smith family reunion. There were 138 relatives and friends who signed the guestbook, with persons coming from Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Washington and South Carolina.

After a potluck lunch a short business meeting was held to choose a committee to plan next year's reunion.

Committee members for the 1991 reunion are: Ann Roberts, Miriam Eastman, Belinda Wotko and Ernest Smith, all of Fryeburg; Roger Smith of Stow; and Roy Smith of Slab City in

Glover Corp. begins Powder Ridge sales

Glover Development Corporation of Swamscott, Mass. begins sales of Powder Ridge, a vacation condominium and house lot development on Bald Mountain in Newry this week.

Powder Ridge is located across the valley, two miles from the base of Sunday River Ski Resort, minutes from the town of Bethel. The vacation community offers 98 house lots ranging in size from one to five acres and 59 hillside single and attached homes.

One third of the 370 acre site will remain common space for hiking and mountain biking, cross country skiing, picnicking and outdoor photography.

The developers say they are working with the Conservation District, Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife and the Department of Environmental Protection to maintain the natural ecosystems of the area. Glover Development Corp. is named for General John Glover, a Revolutionary War hero from Swamscott, Mass.

Glover Development Corporation's three partners, Vincent Giarrusso, Francis Cassidy and George Forbes are all residents of Swamscott, Mass. Giarrusso is president of Puritan Properties, a Boston real estate development and management company. Cassidy is the owner of real estate brokerage and insurance agencies in Swamscott and Marblehead, Mass. Forbes, who recently retired from a gasoline and oil delivery business, has moved to Newry where he and his family have been skiing and summer vacationing at Sunday River since 1977. Say Forbes, "We've found a beautiful bowl site close to Sunday River, New England's fastest growing ski resort, and only a few minutes from the classic New England village of Bethel. We've worked closely with town and state officials to insure a well-planned development. Now we're ready to offer what we feel will be one of New England's finest vacation home communities."

North Fryeburg. They stopped by to greet their family and introduce their three-day old son, Russell James Doe, Jr. Proud parents are Russell and Eastman of Fryeburg Harbor; the oldest was Bernice Flagg Brown, 91, from Dixfield; and the couple who had been married longest was Jason and Phyllis Smith of Bethel who will celebrate their 57th anniversary in September.

"Mystery March" prizes were won by Betty Butters, Trisha Larsen, Belinda Wotko, Carl Smith, Jolene Smith, Marvin Libby, Selena Craw, Kyle Larsen and Barbara Eastman. Musical entertainment was by the Smiths—Ernest of Fryeburg, Roger of Stow, Evelyn of Fryeburg Harbor and Louise of East Conway and their families. Everyone enjoyed the sing-along, also.

87th Buck-Farnum family reunion

BRYANT POND—The 87th family reunion of the descendants of Nathaniel Jackson Farnum and Batsheba Buck was held recently at the residence of Robert and Wilma Day on the Gore Road.

A potluck dinner was served at noon by the dinner committee and the host and hostess and their family. Grace was given by the Rev. Roland Lord.

Swimming, horseshoe competitions, volleyball and croquet were enjoyed by family members present from Bryant Pond, Peru, West Paris, Norway, New Sweden, Mexico, Bethel, East Sumner, New Gloucester, Canton and Rochester, N.H.

During the business meeting, an election of officers was held with the Rev. Roland Lord being elected president; Albert Farnum, vice president; Bernice Easter, secretary; and Erma Lowe, treasurer. Serving on the dinner committee will be Robert and Wilma Day, Robert and Bonnie Day, Chris and Kathy Hurd, Addie Childs, Queda Billings, Bertha McIntyre and Faye Roberts. The entertainment committee will include Scott Billings, David Farnum and Jim Farnum.

The oldest member present was Ethel Farnum, while the oldest direct Farnum descendant present was Roger Farnum and the oldest direct Buck descendant present was Winola Billings. The youngest family member was Abigail Lee Hutchins, daughter of Kristie Day and Benjamin Hutchins. Traveling the farthest were Kathryn Easter of New Sweden and Michael and Donna Monis of Rochester, N.H.

Next year the reunion will be held on July 14 at the home of Robert and Wilma Day.

King of the Mountain

THE EASY WAY TO THE TOP

Mountain bikers take to the trails at Sunday River

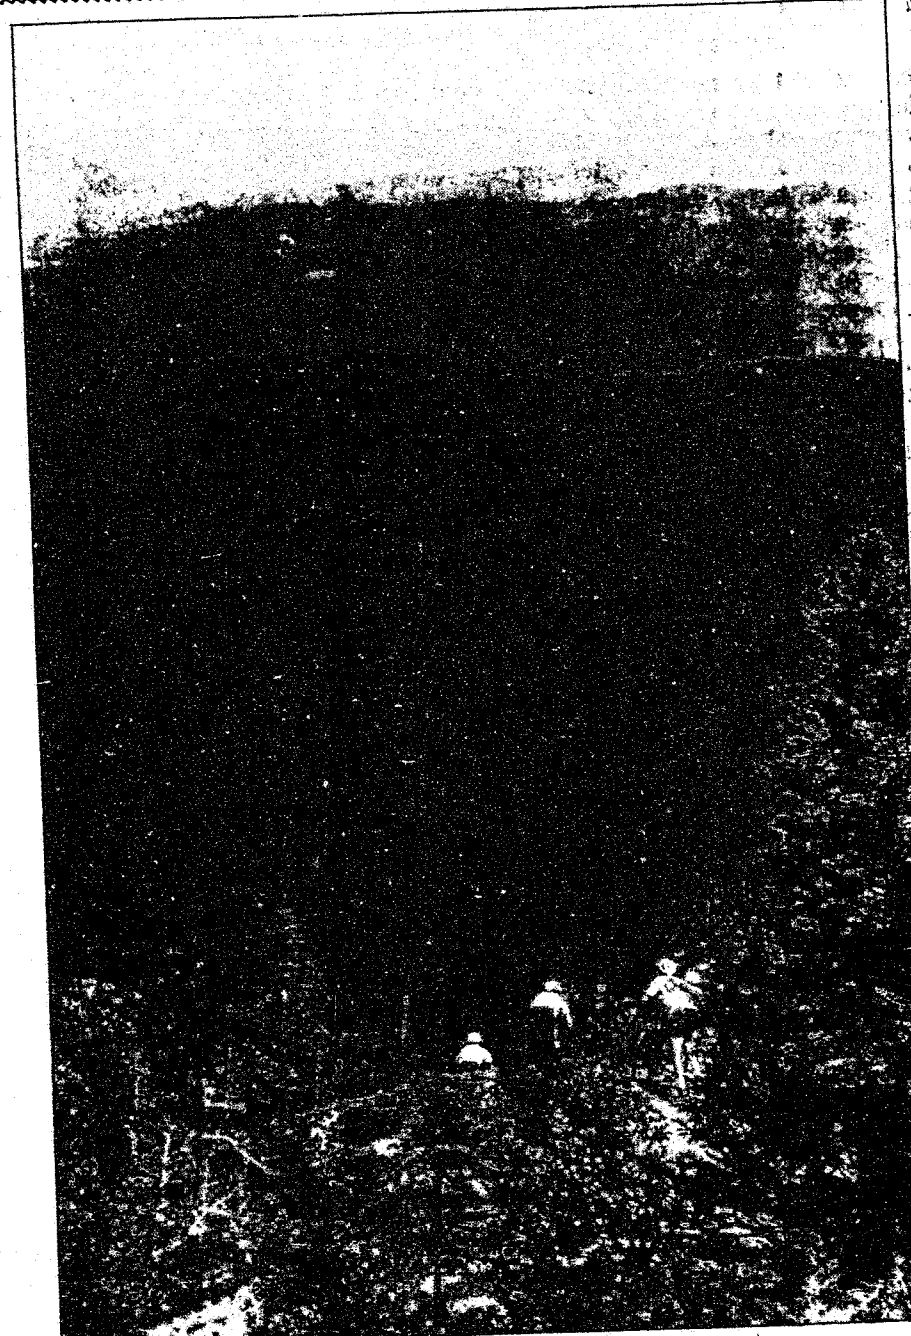

Mounted mountain goats, the two-wheeled variety, clambered the slopes of Sunday River Skiway over the weekend, as mountain bikers from across the East convened for the first annual King of the Mountain races. The weekend featured men's and women's cross-country and slalom racing, as well as a "Kamikazi Downhill Race."

While the more competitive pedaled for over $20,000 in cash and prizes, other bikers headed out for the quiet of mountain tops and empty ski trails.

Still others abandoned the trails altogether, seeking out their own, unbeaten paths down the mountainside.

On October 6-7, the skiway will be the setting for the Fat Tire Mountain Bike Weekend, a family oriented fundraiser for the American Lung Association.

Until then the bike park will be open on Saturdays and Sundays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., with lift service available to the top of Locke Mountain.

Mahoosuc Arts plans mime, magic, music

Students and families in western Maine only have two weeks left to enjoy their summer vacation, but they can look forward to a fall filled with school and community programs sponsored by the Mahoosuc Arts Council.

On Friday, Sept. 14, the Magic of Lyn will be in Bethel to perform in an assembly program for SAD #44 elementary students. That evening they will perform for the public in the Bingham Auditorium at Gould Academy.

Lyn is one of the few female illusionists in the world. She features big box illusions with breathtaking effects that keep audiences on the edge of their seats. Her act also incorporates music, choreography, comedy, color and animals to create "impossible possibilities." The Society of American Magicians refers to Lyn as "the fastest rising superstar in the realm of magic."

Mahoosuc Arts will sponsor two assembly performances of Beajest Movement Theater for the Telstar High School and Middle School students. Beajest will also perform as part of Gould Academy's Performing Arts Series. Evening programs in this series begin at 7:30 p.m. and are always open to the public. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Columbus Day weekend (Oct. 6 and 7) is packed full of programs to suit all ages. If you are a fan of Maine storyteller and comedian Joe Perham, you will want to be sure to mark Oct. 6 on your calendar. Joe will be performing in the Bingham Auditorium as part of Gould Academy's alumni weekend. The Casco Bay Chorus, formerly the Sweet Adelines, will be a part of the evening's entertainment also. This performance is open to the public and tickets will be sold at the door.

On Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 6 and 7, the Mahoosuc Arts Council will sponsor its first annual Showcase of Local Performing Artists at Sunday River's White Cap Lodge. This Showcase will coincide with Sunday River's Fall Festival weekend and more information about the artists and performers participating in the two day event will be included in upcoming articles.

Donald Hall, poet and author of the Caldicott Award winning book "The Ox-Cart Man" will be at Gould Academy in November to give a poetry reading. The following morning, he will share with Bethel third grade students who use "The Ox-Cart Man" as part of their social studies curriculum.

Fans and followers of folk guitar and songster Gordon Bok, will be pleased to read that he will perform for Mahoosuc Arts Fall Concert on Saturday evening, Nov. 17, in the Bingham Auditorium. Mr. Boisterously has worked on or near the salt water most of his life either in shipyards or on sailing vessels serving in every capacity from dishwasher to captain. He sings traditional sea songs of many countries, unaccompanied ballads of Maine and the Maritimes, stories of boats and sailors from his experience, and instruments of various kinds. Serving as the original first mate of the sloop "Clearwater," he toured the New England coast with the Hudson River Sloop Singers. Boisterously has also appeared with the Paul Winter Consort and the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra and has served as Artist-in-Residence and faculty member of the College of the Atlantic.

The Mahoosuc Arts Programming Committee will usher in the Christmas season with a Messiah Sing directed and coordinated by Jonathan Smith on Sunday, Dec. 8, at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel. The community is invited to participate in rehearsals during the afternoon and the official "sing" will begin at 4 p.m.

1991 Mahoosuc programs will include solo pianist Masanobu Ikemura, Shakespeare & Co.'s production of Macbeth, Brad Terry and Friends of Jazz, Josh White, Jr. and several other outstanding performances that are currently being scheduled. Be sure to watch your mail for the Mahoosuc Arts programming flyer which will be arriving in September.

Self-esteem and assertiveness courses offered

Do you feel good about yourself? Do you know what makes you special? How do you feel about speaking up for yourself, protecting your rights while respecting the rights of others? Transitions, a Displaced Homemaker's Program, is offering classes in self esteem building and assertiveness training.

Self-Esteem Building will be held at the Buckfield High School on Tuesdays, 6-8 p.m., Aug. 28-Oct. 2. Assertiveness Training will be held at Telstar High School on Thursdays, 6-8 p.m., Aug. 30-Oct. 4.

All services of the Displaced Homemakers Program are free and confidential. We serve women in transition, particularly women experiencing separation, divorce, death, disability or unemployment of a spouse. We help women bridge the gap from home to the workplace or back to school. Enrollment will be limited.

Local sunfish sailors wrap up their season

The North Pond Sailing Association held its final regatta of the 1990 season Sunday on Lake Christopher.

Following the day's sailing, high-point trophies for the season were presented to: first place—Warren Galway, of Harpswell (3,500 points); second place—James Catlin, of Singerville (2,207 points) and third place—Ryan Galway, of Harpswell (1,870 points).

Sunday's sailing was hosted by Milton and Jane Mills.

chairperson of the ASCS, said. "There have been some changes in programs and policies during the past year and it is important to review and discuss these changes," he said.

The Conservation Review Group will consider cost effective means to reduce excessive soil erosion to crop, range, pasture and forest lands; conserve water used in agriculture and to reduce flood damage in upstream areas; and reduce agricultural pollution.

ASCS administers the Agricultural Conservation Program, Conservation Reserve Program, Emergency Conservation Program, Rural Clean Water Program, Forestry Incentives Program and the Water Bank Program.

Papoose Pond landowners hold association meeting

The first annual meeting of the Papoose Pond Landowners Association was held Aug. 11 at the Trindard residence on Papoose Pond. Many of the 30 members attended. Elected to the Board of Directors were Alton Howe, Florence Greenleaf, Kim Pagid, Ernest Racine and Rev. Earl Bell. The directors elected Howe as president and Greenleaf as secretary-treasurer.

The purpose of the newly formed organization is to preserve, enhance and protect the beauty and value of Papoose Pond and its adjacent area.

As a special guest at the meeting, Scott Williams, aquablogist for the Maine Congress of Lake Associations, made a very interesting and informative presentation on lake pollution,

3-2-1 Contact host to visit Channel 10 studio

"3-2-1 Contact" host, 14-year old Stephanie Yu, and Executive Producer Anne Hoffman will be in the WCBB Ladd Studio on Monday, Aug. 27, 2 p.m., to talk about a new program, "You Can't Grow Home Again."

Channel 10 is one of five stops that Yu and Hoffman will be making as part of a nationwide tour to talk to "3-2-1 Contact" viewers about the destruction of the rain forests.

You will talk about what rainforests are, why they are so fragile, and why their destruction has grave consequences for people all over the world.

The event is open to the public at no charge, but due to limited space, tickets must be obtained in advance. Call WCBB at 207-883-0101 for more information.

its prevention and water testing.

Testing at Papoose Pond began some weeks ago and will continue throughout the summer.

A discussion of the huge increases and inequities of the last two years' town taxes followed. It was generally agreed that better representation of shore property owners in town government was necessary.

Middle Intervale Meeting House Quilt Show Saturday, Aug. 25

The Middle Intervale Meeting House Society will host its third quilt show this Saturday, Aug. 25, at the Meeting House. Over 50 quilts have been registered. Many of them antiques and a large number made by Bethel area citizens. Of special interest will be the raffle drawing of the beautiful Churn-dash pattern quilt made earlier this year by several society members. This quilt has been on display at Moses Mason Museum and the Bethel Library this summer.

The circa 1816 Meeting House, once the center of the Town of Bethel, is an important architectural part of western Maine history. Visitors to the quilt show will enjoy the lovely, old building situated in the midst of farmland and mountain views of Middle Intervale.

Donations are requested in lieu of admission and will benefit the restoration and maintenance of the Meeting House. The show will be from 10 a.m. to late afternoon.

both classic and modern composers. A lover of ragtime and jazz, she is often the featured artist on public radio programs in the Boston area. Of particular interest to her is the music of American women composers, many of whose significant works she has recorded with Northeastern Records.

Ms. Eskin's benefit performance will help the non-profit Deertrees Theatre in Harrison, opened in 1997 by the great Walter Hampden. The efforts of many, like Virginia Eskin, interested in the creative and performing arts, have made possible the several events presented on stage at the theatre this summer. All contributions are applied to the ongoing repairs and restoration project. Closed since 1979, the building needs much work.

For more information about the Eskin concert and/or Deertrees Foundation, please call 207-583-2283 or 207-647-8467.

Piano concert to conclude Deertrees Theater 1990

Virginia Eskin, concert pianist, will give the final scheduled program of the 1990 summer season at Deertrees Theatre. Date and time set for Thursday, Aug. 23, at 8 p.m. No tickets. Donation only.

Eskin, well known throughout the United States, is a frequent guest of the Boston, Baltimore and San Francisco Symphony Orchestras. His broad repertoire includes the piano works of

MCS offers events in continued celebration of Earth Day 1990

The Maine Conservation School will continue its celebration of Earth Day with a series of events for adults this coming week.

The theme will be based on forests and folklore and will feature area specialists.

Starting Monday, Aug. 27, there will be a slide show by board member Nancy McReel entitled, "The Rare and Endangered Plants of Maine."

On Tuesday, Aug. 28, Paula Michniewicz, MCS Program Coordinator, will take people on a night hike with some star gazing.

The final presentation on Thursday, Aug. 30, will be given by noted Maine humorist, Joe Perham.

All events start at 7:30 p.m. from Rogers dining hall. Admission is free, but reservations are required by calling the school at 665-2068.

Hedgehog Hill Farm adds new public garden

The staff at Hedgehog Hill Farm in Sumner is pleased to announce that they have added a new garden for the public to enjoy. This garden has taken several months to design and construct, and yet no one has set out a single plant in the process.

The new area is called "A Walk in the Woods," and it should be of special interest to people who appreciate quiet walks and the opportunity to enjoy native plants and animals. The walk begins just opposite the farm's Herb and Everlasting Shop, and meanders through the woods for about three-quarters of a mile.

The walking path has been carefully laid out and cleared by members of the staff. Small signs along the way mark the path through old and new forests, down old woods roads, across beautiful stone walls, up over the back of Hedgehog Hill, and then down through a small wetland.

The walk is filled with hundreds of species of native plants, including hazelnuts, wild tili of the valley, lady's slippers, ground pine, and interesting species of mushrooms and fungi. The walk goes through a young natural forest as well as a section of the small plants and trees so that the walk may be used as a place to learn more about indigenous flora.

Everyone is invited to enjoy "A Walk in the Woods" any day from 9-5, from snow melt until snow fall. There is no fee for usage, but visitors should know that smoking, pets and picking are not allowed on the grounds. It is hoped that this new natural garden will be a place of quiet enjoyment and education for years to come, and that those people who use it will come away with a deeper appreciation for the beauty of our Maine woods.

Hedgehog Hill Farm is located in Sumner approximately 25 miles northwest of Lewiston-Auburn, and there are blue and white Department of Transportation signs in both Sumner and Buckfield directing visitors to the farm. Further information may be obtained by calling 288-2341, any day from 9-5.

A week in the life of HILLARY HARRISON

Hidy Ho, how's it going? Pretty good here.

Now there's only about one more week until school. I'm headed for the dreaded seventh. I have at least one good friend in every class, but I'm not ready at all to get my brain charged up again.

Stine has already been in school since Aug. 9. She sent us some pictures of her and she looks kind of different then her Danish friends (the styles from here to there are different), but overall she's doing good.

Last week my mom went to Boston to meet an old friend that she had only seen once in 15 years. She really had a great time with her, because they still have so very much in common. We'll see y'a next time.

Senior Citizen menus

Thursday, Aug. 23: Lasagna, green beans, garlic bread, brownie.

Tuesday, Aug. 28, Bethel Day: Baked fish, whipped potatoes, garden salad, whole wheat roll, Indian pudding.

Thursday, Aug. 30: Baked chicken, whipped potatoes, sweet peas, dinner roll, frosted graham crackers.

Obituaries

RAYMOND HOLDER

Raymond Holder, 66, who lived on Narragansett Street in Gorham died, Saturday, Aug. 18, at a Portland hospital.

Born in Portland, he was the son of Edward and Florence Richardson Holder and attended schools in Gilead. Mr. Holder was most recently employed by Suburban Security in Portland. Prior to that he was employed by the Grand Trunk Railroad, Blue Rock Industries in Westbrook and Hinman Constuction Co.

Mr. Holder was active in the Gorham Fire Department for 20 years. He was also a member of the American Legion and was an avid CB enthusiast, known as "Big Mack."

He served in the Army during World War II.

Surviving is a half-sister, Hilda O'Brien of Gorham.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Dolby Funeral Chapel, South Windham. Burial will be at Riverside Cemetery in Bethel.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Stuart Thurlow would like to thank the residents of Woodstock and the 175th Anniversary Committee for the kindness they showed in naming the Little League field in his memory.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Mrs. Leonard Tyler would like to thank the many friends and relatives for their cards, flowers and sympathy.

Leonard Tyler

CARD OF THANKS

All of the prayer, cards, flowers, calls and visit in the hospital and since my return home, mean more to me than you'll ever know.

Thank y'all.

Iva Abraham

CARD OF THANKS

To my many friends in Bethel who shared in the happy/sad party marking my final weeks of working for NTL in Bethel, and to others who could not attend. I cherish the beautiful gifts and also the warm friendships made over the past 31 summers. I will continue to work for NTL in Virginia and will surely be back to visit Bethel, my second home. God bless you all.

Nancie Coan

Kristy Angevine weds Ernest Aquila

Kristy Sue Angevine and Ernest Paul Aquilar were married May 19 at the Methodist Church in Bethel with Rev. Lisa Vonderheide officiating and Ruth Silver at the organ.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, Richard Angevine of Bethel, wore an off the shoulder satin gown trimmed with lace, accented with a lace train and finger tip veil. Sheri Cordova, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Terri Campbell and Sarah Coolidge, cousin of the bride. Ushers were Rick Angevine, brother of the bride, and Jeff Angevine, cousin of the bride. Santana Cordova, the bride's niece, was the flower girl; ringbearers were her son, Dustin Angevine, and her nephew, Craig Angevine.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Bethel Legion on Vernon Street.

Ernie, Kristy and family are residing in Junction City, Kan. where Ernie is serving in the Medical Corp with the U.S. Army.

Extension schedules Christmas wreath production workshop

Christmas wreath production will be the topic of a daylong workshop in Auburn on Saturday, Sept. 22, sponsored by the University of Maine Cooperative Extension.

Led by experienced wreath producers, the workshop will include discussions and demonstrations on starting a wreath business, decorating and packaging. Participants will receive guidance and suggestions in making and decorating their own wreaths during a hand-on afternoon session.

The program is designed to help participants understand the physical and economic factors involved in designing and constructing balsam fir wreaths. The Maine balsam fir wreath industry has experienced steady growth in the past 35 years, from production of approximately 20,000 wreaths in 1955 to two million in 1987, according to industry figures.

Registration for the workshop, which is limited to 50 people, must be made no later than Sept. 17. For registration and information, contact Vivian Holmes, Extension educator, 277 Minot Ave., Auburn, Me., 04210, telephone 786-0376.

SVH anesthesiologist completes oral exams

Hilton C. Bruch, M.D. recently completed a specialized board examination in Anesthesiology, which is administered by the American Society of Anesthesiologists.

In order to be board certified, a physician must first pass a written examination. The oral examination, which Dr. Bruch recently passed, must be taken within seven years after through a worldwide sale force of 200,000 independent beauty consultants. The company was founded in 1953 by Mary Kay Ash and her son Richard R. Rogers.

Aggie D. Kimball

the written exam.

This final certification entails two 30-minute oral examinations. By passing these board examinations, Dr. Bruch was accepted as a diplomate of the American Board of Anesthesiologists.

Dr. Bruch completed his residency five years ago, in Chapel Hill, N.C., and spent three years in Rhode Island, before moving to Maine. In August, Dr. Bruch will begin his third year at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Pharmacy & Your Health

David Preble, Prim's Pharmacy
Caring for Diarrhea in Children

Untreated diarrhea in infants can become a serious problem. Parents may not realize that water is a large percentage of infants' total body weight. If part of this water is lost through vomiting or acute diarrhea, dehydration and electrolyte imbalance can result. According to the Handbook of Nonprescription Drugs, after 3 to 10 bowel movements in 24 hours, a 2 month-old infant could lose enough fluid to cause circulatory collapse and renal failure.

If infants or small children experience diarrhea for 18 to 24 hours with six to eight watery stools, they should be taken to a clinic or physician's office for evaluation. With less severe diarrhea, commercial or homemade electrolyte solutions may be helpful in preventing dehydration. If the child is old enough and can tolerate a bland diet, apples and/or bananas are recommended.

Nonprescription medicines (containing kaolin, pectin, and/or carboxypol) for older children may be useful in relieving acute diarrhea. According to a recent report in American Pharmacy, the non-prescription medicine loperamide is best for children because of its action on the electrolyte transport of chloride. Recommended doses are based on age and weight of the child. Do not use loperamide for more than 48 hours if diarrhea continues.

BERLIN CITY TOYOTA

Complaints

Greig told the selectmen, "The site evaluation was done and it was okay. The information prior to issuing the permit was done accurately."

Greig said that after the planning board's July meeting there was a three-week delay until the next meeting, and that it was necessary for Cayer to apply for financing prior to that next meeting.

Cayer said he had not wanted to apply for financing if he couldn't get a building permit. He assured the board the permit would not be used until it was proven to be legal.

The question arose as to whether or not Cayer's land is part of a flood plain, which necessitates further investigation by the planning board, entailing studying shoreland ordinances.

Emerson said, "We are trying to establish if the permit is legal, to get it 100 percent upfront for Cayer so he won't have any problem and we won't have any problems. We're not trying to hinder anyone. We're meeting here tonight so later down the road it won't be a case of 'I told you so.' It will be correct."

Selectman Brian Mills said, "The biggest problem isn't Ducky building his house; it's the way it (the permit) was done. There is definitely some discussion about the permit."

Planning board member Ed Kreiton told selectmen that, "All of a sudden the town is becoming aware of regulations our predecessors weren't always aware of. We are coming into problems, but we are trying."

Emerson said the problem was between the planning board and Cayer, and urged the planning board to research the shoreland ordinances and try to come to some decision on Cayer's permit at their Aug. 20 meeting.

Also, Mike Fleury of Poland appeared before the selectmen about his Andover building permit application which, he said, had been turned down twice by the planning board, each time for different reasons.

Fleury said he wants to erect a 12x16 building to be used for storage on his tent site and for occasional sleeping. Fleury said he has a chemical toilet on the premises and no other plumbing. He said he also has future plans for a holding tank or vault privy.

"I am planning to put a vault privy in. You want me to go the next step—which I will never need. You are causing me, a taxpayer, a financial hardship by requiring such a plan," Fleury said.

Greig said, "We are postponing approving the application until we see what is going to happen to the wastewater. We were told by the plumbing inspector that if anyone stays overnight in a building we must have a sub-surface wastewater system design."

Further discussion concerned whether the building—listed as a camp on Fleury's application—should have been listed as a camp or a shed.

Barbara Sweat, who accompanied Fleury, questioned the inavailability of material showing building requirements at the town office. "If you guys don't know, and can't put your finger on it, how can you expect us to know?" she asked. "Why wasn't this brought up the first time the application was submitted? If it was overlooked the first time you are not being consistent. You have to have all the information in front of you and you all have to go over it."

Both Emerson and planning board member Ed Witt pointed out to Sweat that the planning board was made up of volunteers who put in long hours and "can't keep up with everything." Both agreed that Andover building requirements should be written down for consistency of granting permits in the future.

"We've inherited what's here," Witt told Fleury. "We are learning as much as you are. We are working on a building inventory of these things as people like you ask questions."

Emerson ended the discussion by advising the planning board to "either give Mike all the things he needs to do at your Monday meeting or give him a permit. We need to have regulations written down for more consistency in the future so it doesn't come back to the selectmen."

In still other business, Andy Phillips who owns property on South Arm Road asked the selectmen about trees being cut on his property. "You are not losing anything," Emerson said. "Anything being cut down is within town limits and we hope to disturb you as little as possible."

Most of the people along the road are very happy with the results."

Also, Administrative Assistant Rebecca Schachter said the Maine Municipal Association lawyer had advised her that selectmen and other town office staff are entitled to "reasonable compensation" for attending courses of town interest. Such compensation, she said, must be voted as a lump sum at a regular town meeting. Otherwise compensation is only $10 a day.

The selectmen have complained that loss of income has been a factor in their decision not to attend courses which could help them in conducting town business.

When the Budget Committee meets in the fall, a lump sum for training expenses for those interested will be determined.

Finally, Schachter told the board she had learned that the Department of Transportation is willing to provide free paint in five gallon lots for three coats of durable paint on Crocker and Black Brook bridges if they have it in stock. Otherwise the cost will be $15 per gallon as opposed to the $28 per gallon the town has been paying up to now.

Farrar attends dance workshop in Augusta

Sue Farrar, Director of Children's Dance Theater of Bethel, recently attended a three-day dance workshop in Augusta.

Gene Murray of Salem, Mass. and Bill DeRico of Long Island, N.Y., taught classes in ballet, tap and jazz. Farrar was accompanied by her daughter Michelle Keyes who teaches the Children's Dance Theater in South Paris and Windham.

Andover voters nix town office changes; approve used fire truck

By BARBARA ADAMS

Andover voters at special town meeting Aug. 14 defeated both a proposal for an addition to the town office and a proposal to move the town office to the town hall.

Prior to the vote, selectmen distributed copies of the bids for the addition to the town office and for renovation of the town hall.

The selectmen said the bids were incomplete and did not fill the selectmen's requirements of a complete bid. Some excluded electricity, heating, plumbing and carpeting; others included only one or more of these items.

The selectmen said complete estimates, therefore, were not available for voters to compare the projects.

Voters defeated the proposed addition to the town office 53-18. They also defeated the proposal to relocate the town office to the town hall, including renovations to the town hall, by a vote of 48-24. Both articles had recommended that the cost of each project not exceed $40,000.

The article calling for the addition to the town office was tabled at March town meeting, pending an investigation into the feasibility and desirability of renovating the town hall and moving the town office into that building.

In other business, by a vote of 51-3 the town authorized Fire Chief Ken Dixon, with the concurrence of the selectmen and a committee of three including the Fire Chief, to spend up to $43,000 to buy a used tanker/pumper with funds from the fire truck reserve account. The town has $43,000 in that account.

Townpeople at March town meeting voted down a request to spend up to $150,000 for a new tanker/pumper for the fire department.

Finally, Treasurer Alex LeGault told voters the town has $116,000 in the surplus account.

The voters agreed to appropriate from that account:

- $100 instead of $50 for the D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program for the Andover School, at the suggestion of Sharon Hutchins;

- An additional $500 for winter Recreation Committee projects;
- Up to $1,000 to buy a used police cruiser for the town's two new constables; and

- $7,000 for the completion of reconstruction on South Arm Road as well as work to be done on Farmer's Hill.

The voters also accepted the following funding: Public Library State Aid, Civil Emergency Funds, General Assistance Reimbursement.
